Make Year 12 a bit easier

HAVE YOU DONE WELL AT SCHOOL?

You could get an early offer if you:

- Have great marks
- Are active in your community
- Have achieved in sport
- Your school will recommend you
- Are an artist, musician, or actor
- Have leadership experience
- Come from a disadvantaged background
- Are a rural applicant

Not every university offers Early Entry Programs, and they all have different requirements and application criteria. So the research team at Study Work Grow have found out everything you need to know and put it in this simple guide.

For most of the programs you'll need to apply soon, well before you do your final exams. Then the uni will use a combination of factors including your results, any awards or achievements you've received, test results, auditions, portfolios and more to decide if they want to make you an early offer.

It's one less thing to worry about

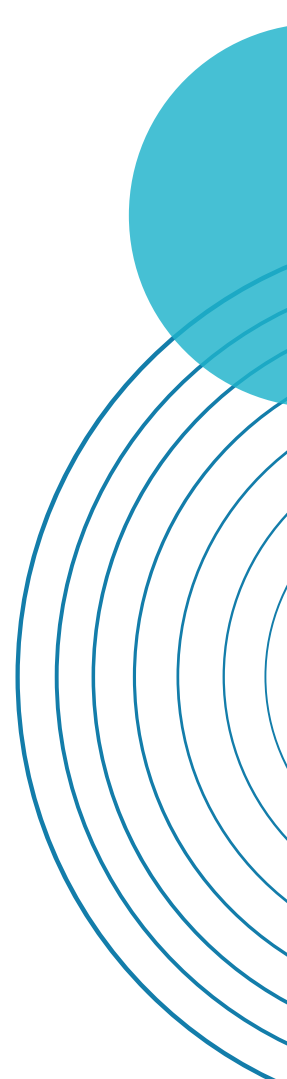

STRESS LESS AND FOCUS ON YOUR EXAMS, KNOWING YOU'VE GOT A PLACE TO GO ONCE SCHOOL IS OVER

Things you need to know:

- Your offer will probably be 'conditional', which means you'll still need to get an ATAR and fulfil all the requirements to keep your spot
- You could receive an offer before you even sit an exam, but some offers won't come out until the ATARs are released, so check your dates
- Getting an early offer can help you plan where you're going to live and possibly work with more certainty
- You don't have to take the offer. It's optional, so you can choose to treat it as a back up if you like

Most of the Early Entry programs are FREE to apply for, and many of them come with attached scholarship programs, so why not give it a go?
